Forecast For Scotland
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 0400 on Thursday 03 Jun 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Mostly dry and warm with some sunshine.

Today:
Much of Scotland will remain dry with some sunshine, best across Moray, Inverness and northwest Highlands. A cloudier day further south with showers fizzling out. Haar slowly clearing from Northeast.

Tonight:
Dry and clear in the west but low cloud and fog again in the east, however this should clear by dawn in the freshening southwesterly winds.

Friday:
Generally dry and bright but more cloud for the west, eastern Scotland seeing best of sunshine. A few showers possible in the far west and Hebrides. Breezy in the northwest.

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
A few showers popping up on Saturday and cloudy in the west, drier and brighter for most of Scotland on Sunday and Monday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.